Letter from the President

Dear Conference Attendees,

Welcome to FMHAC's 35th Annual Conference. Thank you for coming. Our severe state and county budget problems are making an impact. I want to acknowledge your commitment and dedication for being here. We are appreciative of the agencies who continue to fund attendance at this important conference and to those who came even without that support. We welcome all who have come for the first time. We hope you find much value here and make the FMHAC conference part of your annual training.

This year's conference line up is as good as ever. Our focus on high quality conferences has not diminished. Our topics range from a variety of clinical topics, the hot IST issue, models of collaboration and multi-disciplinary approaches, and presentations on special populations. I believe there is no better training to be found in our field.

While you enjoy excellent training, please also reach out and get to know one another. The networking at this conference provides opportunities for further learning, problem solving and collaboration. As an association, we have been successful in our efforts to broaden our relationships with key partners. This year, we welcome judges and attorneys to our legal track, as well as our base of clinicians, administrators, paraprofessionals, case managers, law enforcement and supervision professionals.

I encourage you to take the time to talk to our executive director, Molly, and our board and committee members. They have worked tirelessly in preparing this conference and moving this organization forward and a word of thanks goes a long way. We also invite your written evaluation of the conference and ideas of where we should go as an organization and in future conferences. Our severe budget problems will hopefully come to an end in the next few years. As we pass through these lean times, your support is what will enable this organization to carry on. Thank you for being here and being involved.

LIL COOL

Kenneth A. Carabello, LCSW

President

Reminders

- Please take a moment to complete your conference evaluation form, even if you are not seeking CEUs. The Board of Directors and Planning Committee take into consideration all requests and suggestions when planning for next year's conference.
- Please also fill out the college registration form. The forms are submitted to the state, who then reimburses FMHAC for each registration. It's an easy way to help support FMHAC!
- Please wear your name badges throughout the conference. This will be your entrance pass to all workshops and social events. Lost badges can be replaced at the FMHAC registration table.
- Check out time at the Embassy Suites is 12:00 noon.

PRESENTER SPOTLIGHT

Steven Miles, MD

Dr. Steven Miles is Professor of Medicine at the University of Minnesota Medical School in Minneapolis and is on the faculty of the University's Center for Bioethics.

He has taught in many countries and served as medical director for the American Refugee Committee for twenty-five years which has included service as chief medical officer for 45,000 refugees on the Thai-Cambodian border and projects in Sudan, Croatia, Bosnia-Herzogovina, Indonesia and the Thai-Burmese border.

His work has changed end of life care, nursing home care, and medical care in prisons and refugee camps.

Dr. Miles is presenting the two sections of our Wrap Up session titled Prison Mental Health Care: Professionalism Under Pressure and War on Terror Prisons: Lessons for Forensic Mental Health Clinicians. Read more about him in Presenter Biographies.

1. Salon A MCEP/CEU PART 1 Paradoxical Strategies in Forensics and Other Clinical Settings: Balancing the Recovery Model and Core Values to Survive and Thrive Without the Jive

Steven Berman, PhD, Senior Supervising Psychologist/BY CHOICE Coordinator, Patton State Hospital

Theory and best practices of paradoxical interventions are applied to a variety of clinical dilemmas and challenges in forensic and outpatient settings. New curriculum and strategies to treat the most difficult individuals with fewer resources is shown to paradoxically induce lasting change, and save change (money) in the process - introducing the FACE IT and PACE IT group method and how to get the best clinical bang for your buck from state hospital behavior change agents.

A Psychiatric-Legal Analysis of a Case of Lycanthropy in a 19th Century Serial Killer

J. Arturo Silva, MD, Private Practice

Douglas Tucker, MD, Associate Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine

In this session we will introduce the problem of conducting an analysis of a difficult case with limited funding. We will focus on 19th century Galician serial killer, Manuel Blanco Romasanta. A combination of historical, cultural, linguistic and phenomenological factors, currently make him a challenging psychiatric-legal study. Romasanta also claimed that he was a werewolf. Therefore, the nature of lycanthropy in relation to serial killing behavior will also be covered in this presentation.

Panelists:

Natalie Claussen-Rogers, PsyD, Supervisor of Mental Health Services

Roger Ortiz, Mental Health Case Manager
Pat Aldrich, Probation Division Manager, Adult Services

Christine Olvera, Probation Officer

This session will be a panel/lecture presentation on how Tulare County agencies came together using existing resources to begin and maintain a thriving mental health court. The discussion will include a review on what a mental health court is, why it is needed, who participates in it, and why it is different from other diversion courts.

Risk Assessment of Sex Offenders and Sexually Violent Predators: New Developments and Controversies

Hy Malinek, PsyD, SVP Evaluator, California Department of Mental Health

Sex offenders and civil commitment laws continue to trigger considerable interest and quite a few controversies. This presentation will attempt to provide a bird's eye view of recent legal developments and new research in this area, as well as their ramifications for clinical practice and court testimony. Diagnostic dilemmas and risk assessment approaches involved in evaluating child molesters and rapists will be critically reviewed. The presenter has evaluated approximately 500 individuals under the SVP law, and has testified for both prosecutors and defense lawyers in more than 250 cases.

Cyber-Stalking: Dangers Lurking on the Internet
Malliga Battar, PhD, Psychologist, Private Practice
Robert Knapton, Deputy Sheriff, San Mateo County Sheriff's Office

This workshop will address issues of cyber-stalking, the growing media concerns and its impact on victims. The prevalence of cyber-stalking has increased due to easy access to social networking sites such as Facebook, Twitter and MySpace websites. The impact of economy has also contributed to the rise in cyber stalking cases and there seems to be an increase in the arrests of stalkers since more law enforcement officers are trained in these cases. Different types of stalkers and videos of cases will be shown.

Integrated New Family Opportunities (INFO) Program

Steve Vasquez, Esq, Probation Officer III, San Bernardino County Probation Department

Kristina Trauth, MFT, Probation Officer II, San Bernardino County Probation Department

The San Bernardino County Integrated New Family Opportunities (INFO) Program is an example of a positive collaboration between law enforcement and mental health services. The INFO Program focuses on mentally ill criminal offending juveniles, and their families, and combines Functional Family Therapy with extensive probation supervision as a means of initiating positive change. Statistics from the first two years of the INFO program is displaying that the collaborative approach for this unique demographic is proving to be successful. The SB County INFO Program has been awarded a NACo Award and has been named a Model MIOCR Program by the State of California.

Designing Effective Suicide Risk Assessment Practices for High-Risk Correctional Patients

Robert Horon, PhD, Senior Psychologist, Supervisor, Department of Mental Health, Vacaville Psychiatric Program

Todd McManus, PhD, Research Coordinator, Department of Mental Health, Vacaville Psychiatric Program

Investigators will present data from an ongoing study of suicide risk at a large correctional psychiatric hospital. The validity of using standardized suicide risk assessment and interview measures on this population will be explored and variables related to number of prior suicide attempts will be reviewed. Additional variables that appear to confer risk of or protection from suicide will be explored. General practice principles for suicide risk assessment in correctional populations will be discussed.

PART 1 Ethical Considerations in Psychiatric Diagnoses in Forensic and Correctional Settings

Karen Franklin, PhD, Adjunct Professor, Alliant International University

This three hour workshop explores controversies surrounding certain psychiatric diagnoses in forensic and correctional settings. Issues of reliability, validity, and clinical utility of diagnoses including antisocial personality disorder, sexual paraphilias, and novel diagnoses being proposed for the upcoming DSM-V will be a focus. The instructor, a forensic scholar and member of the state psychological association's ethics committee, will provide a framework to assist practitioners in applying psychiatric diagnoses in an ethical, unbiased, and professionally defensible manner.

5. Salon EFG MCEP/CEU MCLE 1368 Revisited: Pending Procedural Changes in Assessing Trial Competence

Jonathan French, PhD, Private Practice

LEGAL TRACK Changes are afoot concerning trial competence. State hospitals are full to bursting, often with defendants who were already competent upon arrival, while other 1370 designees languish untreated in county jails. The state Judicial Council, among other bodies, remains concerned over the uncertain role of clinicians in legal proceedings and with the dearth of uniform evaluation standards. As the journeymen professionals who conduct these evaluations, we would do well to become directly involved in this process, lest we have unwanted changes thrust upon us. To this end, we will consider several issues, including assessing competence for limited purposes, malingering, and the elusive concept of competence.

Clarifying Women's Pathways to Prison: New Findings and Implications for Theory and Treatment

Tim Brennan, PhD, Vice President, Chief Scientist, Northpointe Institute

Pathways research on women offenders is now evolving from qualitative analysis to an integration of findings from several sub-disciplines (life-course studies, criminal careers, developmental criminology, taxonomies of women offenders). This shift is enhanced by new gender-responsive (GR) needs instruments designed specifically for women. This session describes eight pathways identified in a sample of over 1000 women from California prisons. Following the description of these "well trodden" pathways, we discuss theoretical and treatment implications.

Open Access: for the people

All too often, people who depend on public assistance are denied access to newer, safer, and more effective treatments for mental illness. This inability to obtain the treatment they need can trigger a pattern of deterioration — becoming unemployed, being hospitalized, imprisoned, and often ending up homeless. This destructive cycle is costly for taxpayers and devastating to the families of people with mental illness.

That's why Eli Lilly and Company continues to support open and unrestricted access to all available treatments for mental illness.

Scientific advances have resulted in medications that are effective in delaying relapse¹, provide more effective symptom control, have fewer side effects, and offer longer-term treatment than in the past.

Give them access to the treatments they need, and give them hope for taking their lives back.
